The Beautiful Sometime.

BY MRS. D. M. JORDAN.

Out of the golden present, out of the bright to-day,
We are looking into the future, over a weary way;
Reaching toward our tendrils, striving in vain to climb
Out of the life about us, into the glad sometime.

Never the gorgeous summer shines in such perfect light,
As when o're the hills of autumn it vanishes from our sight;
And the rose is never half so sweet when bushes are bent with bloom,
As when it hangs on the stem alone, and all the garden is gloom.

When we sit in living presence of one that we dearly prize,
Present the thrilling clasp of a hand, and look in loving eyes,
We know not the fullness of the joy till the glimps of heaven is past—
And we walk alone in the shadow of a pleasure too sweet to last.

How strange that we see not the shining, and hear not the sound of wings;
Till spirit fingers waken the cords of memory's echoing strings;
And strange that we see not the glory of youth till its dreams are fled,
Nor the strength of manhood till over our brows the snows of age are shed.

Of life that is worth the living, and love that makes life sweet;
Of earth, like a glad thanksgiving, for the joys of heaven complete;
Of heart that is running over, with a song of joy and love,
Shall I never fathom your mysteries 'till I know the life above?

Shall I never cease the longing for something beyond my grasp.
Shall I trample the flowers in my pathway, for those that I may not clasp?
Shall all of life's rythmical numbers be set to one mournful chime,
Of never to day, but to-morrow; not now, but the glad sometime?

Selected Story.

The Deacon's Courtship.

The handsomest woman in all the country side was the widow Adams. The reigning toast at sixteen, a bride at eighteen, and a widow at twenty, endowed with the largest and best farm in the upper parish, with outlaying pasture and woodlands, and thousands in bank stock, litle wonder that though her crop had not diminished one iota, and her rosy cheeks and bright eyes were still shrouded in the widow's veil, that manly eyes and manly hearts should be directed toward her, less wonder that a sleighing party from the "Port" should visit her on a bright moonlight evening that the pretty widow should look her best and be toasted as never before over her thanksgiving cake, sweet cider, and choice old Jamaica, or that when the beaux and bells next evening congregated in the school-house on the "Green" to practice choir singing, which was just begining to supersede the old-fashioned "deacoming out," that the handsome widow and her surroundings should become matter of discussion.

Deacon Cluff at the "pines" had a holy horror of this new style of singing. Though a man only a little past forty, he held in sacred disdain any infringement of his sabbatical privileges. It made him a person of mark to stand in the deacon's seat before the pulpit and read two lines of the psalm for those in the singing gallery to tune into melody. So the deacon, that evening, had determined to go over to the school-house to stop the disorderly proceedings. Six weeks a widower, I dare not aver how strongly other reasons urged the step. Mrs. Cluff was not forgotten, on the contrary she was remembered every hour in the day. He was lonesome; his hours were at sixes and sevens, his children unruly. Then he was consious of a strange sense of freedom—the feminine world was again open to him; it was pleasant to gaze at the lovely maidens of the society. He was high in the social scale; last year overseer of the poor, this year selectman of the town, spoken of as being likely to be sent to the big and mighty General Court on the following year. With his standing in the church, surely he might aspire to the fairest and richest of the land.

A huge fire of green logs was sputtering and sizzling in the wide stone fireplace of the rude, half-finished temple of learning; the tallow candles, stuck into square blocks whittled from a pine stick, cast a weird light over the clumsy desk and seats, hacked and disfigured by their various occupants, casting ghostly shadows over the time-stained and smoke-embrowned walls. Grouped around the benches and desks, were some thirty lads and lasses, singing at the "Green," and a few friends, come to assist in the acquirement of sacred harmony.

Deacon Cluff was an artist, I fear he hardly knew the full meaning of the term; still as he pushed aside the clumsy outer door and stood in the little vestibule, the picturesqueness of the scene arrested his steps, and caused him to stand unobserved in the half opened entrance of the entrance.

A merry laugh ran round the group as the deacon paused; a curly-haired blue-eyed miss, perched upon the front desk, exclaimed.

"Elbridge Clifton expects to marry the rich and handsome widow we visited last night; but the lady is a good God-fearing Federalist, and would not look at such a Tom Pain infidel and Jeffersonian Democrat. Now John Pike has a chance. Cheer up, John; if the schoolmarm did give you the mitten, I heard the Widow Adams ask you the price of salt hay."

Another uproarous peal was the responces to this sally.

"Who is this Widow Adams, inquired a young man, throwing down the bellows with which he had been coaxing the fire."

"My cousin, Mrs. Bessie Adams, the fairest and wealthiest dame in the county," replied the damsel on the front desk.

"Where does she live?"

"On a splendid farm in the upper parrish. It's a magnificent place. Don't you wish to be introduced? Very likely you could cut out Clifton."

"And what would Miss Mears do if he did ?" queried a distinguished-looking young man who was leaning against the teacher's desk.

"Marry Deacon Cluff, girls you've a chance! I saw him speaking round the the meeting-house Sunday. His wife is cold in the ground by this time, and he is still young and good-looking; has lots of the ready; is a big man—intends to be bigger; has only six responsibilities. Girls, there's a chance! Hurrah! I vote for the deacon—the boys may have the widow. Bring on your books. Let's proceed to business."

Before the preceeding had been half spoken, Deacon Cluff had retreated across the entry. At its close, forgetting his mission, he fairly bolted and ran, never stopping till past the pond and green, when, wiping the perspiration from his brow, he began to gather up his ideas. Yes. the litle minx was right—he was still young and good looking, rich and a man of note, Who was the Widow Adams? He must learn! To be sure, it was rather quick after his wife's death; but then some of those young fellows would obtain her, and doubtless she would prefer an older, more staid man, like himself. He needed some pigs. Of course on such a farm there would be an excuse for a call. He would ride up to the upper parish the next Thursday lecture and ascertain where the lady resided, and have a look at her, if nothing more. The Thursday afternoon lecture was a great institution with our forefathers. A half holiday to the schools, it was as regularly attended as the Sabbath services, and those, if health permitted, were seldom omitted.

The January thaw had come—it was poor sleighing; so. as Deacon Cluff was an expert horseman, be determined to take to the saddle.

The Widow Adams was an orderly woman—she never infringed upon custom or propriety; she would certainly have attended the lecture had not her next door neighbor slipped on the wet door-stone and broken her leg; consequently the handsome widow was assisting snuffy, clumsy Dr. Rich in his manipulations, instead of being present at the afternoon service.

The old, unpainted square meeting-house, with its rattling windows and heavy doors, basked in the sunshine upon the hill-top. Males and females dismounted from saddle and pillion, at the horse-block, near the principal entrance; the long row of sheds became filled with sleighs; the square pews, long seats, and wide galleries were thronged. The head chorister pitched his pipe, the tithing man, with his long pole, seated himself among the boys in the gallery; the three deacons took their place front of the pulpit; the pastor, in his wig, black gown and white bands, walked majestically up the centre aisle, and slowly, ascended the stairs leading to the high rostrum; the sexton stealthily tiptoed forward and humbly seated himself upon the lowest step.

The parson rose, psalm book in hand, the centre door slowly and noiselessly opened, the sexton sprang forward and ushered the stranger who had entered into one of the best pews, beside a very quiet, demure-looking young lady.

Notwithstanding her somber countenance and modest demeanor, Tabitha Dole was one of the greatest witches that ever danced to black Sambo's fiddle. She and Miss Mears had attended Atkinson Academy together and become choice friends. Tabitha had been visiting at the Green, knew Deacon Cluff by sight, and there learned of his widowed estate. Consequently, when after service, through which he had been unusually devout, he inquired for the residence of the Widow Adams, the young spirits at once fathomed his intentions.

Now there was another widow Adams, a woman of sixty, with two unmarried daughters—residing within a stone's throw of the meeting-house; thither the mischievous girl directed the deacon. But as he stopped to speak to the parson and other dignitaries, she ran over to apprise Hannah Adams, whom she found alone, of his coming. Hannah was the fiance of Tabitha's brother, manager of the widow's farm, while Tabitha had promised to wed Edward White, another young man employed upon the premises.

Five minutes sufficed, amid giggling and suppressed ejaculations, for Tabitha to unfold a plan, and Hannah to accede to it, by which the deacon was to be victimized.

Tabitha met her lover as she returned up the hill, and informed him of the part he was to play in the drama; so when the suitor, proud of his horse and horsemanship, pranced up the long lane, everything was in readiness for an appropriate reception.

The worthy man never dreamed of any mistake. A large, substantial farmhouse, with long barns and an abundance of outbuildings, surrounded by orchards, fields, and meadows—everything evinced wealth and care.

Hannah answered his knock. "Yes, the Widow Adams resided here. She was absent, but would return by sunset. Would not the gentleman walk in and wait, the man would take his horse. Pigs, oh yes, there was quite a number—he could look at them." So Edward White threw the bridle over his arm and the deacon accompanied him to the stable. More and more pleased after a due inspection of the place and many inquiries, all of which his companion managed to answer satisfactorily, the visitor returned to the house, where a mug of flip awaited him, and he was placed in a large arm chair beside the fire in the clean, bright family room.

The logs snapped and sparkled in the huge fireplace; the long dresser, brilliant with pewter and many-hued crockery, gleamed in the firelight; the tea-kettle sang merrily on the long trammel; the supper-table, with its spotless cloth and beautifully-painted china, was drawn out in the center of the neatly-sanded floor. When Edward White had handed him a nicely-lighted pipe the visitor felt remarkably comfortable, and as he puffed the curls of smoke about his head and watched pretty, buxom Hannah Adams as she bustled about, he thought that if the maid was so good-looking—and he never doubted her to be the serving-maid—what would be the mistress? He scarcely cared; he liked the looks of this girl, so spry and deft in all her movements.

With half-closed eyes he gazed, as the pies and doufihnuts were placed on the hearth to warm, bread, cheese, and cake cut, the toast dipped, and the sausages fried.

Chang, chang, chang came the bells—good, old-fashioned, resounding bells. A large, low, comfortable, yellow sleigh, drove to the door. Two young ladies in mourning and sable furs were assisted from the robes of strong, home-spun coverlets, the foot-stove was taken out, then Mr. White drove to the barn, and Deacon Cluff rose to be introduced.

A tall, gaunt, pale, wrinkled woman, in large, round glassed, silver-mounted spectacles, entered, followed by a black-eyed, sunny faced younger one.

"My mother, the widow Adams, and my sister, Miss Susan Adams," said Hannah, in her most modest and bewitching manner.

The deacon certainly experienced a nervous start. For an instant his tongue was paralysed, his brain whirled, all his ideas seemed resolving to chaos. But he was a man of the world, prided himself on always being equal to any situation. There was a mistake, this was not the woman or place he had sought, but it never should be known, so with his most courdly air he gave his name, and he inquired respecting the swine.

"Mrs. Adams had not thought of disposing of any, her hired help ate a great deal of pork during the Summer, but perhaps she could spare a couple; her foreman, Mr. Dole, would be home soon. She must consult him. The gentleman must stop to tea; after that there would be plenty of time for business."

The supper was a very sociable one. The deacon learned that David Dole was the prospective son-in-law, as well as foreman to Mrs. Adams; but he was even more pleased with Miss Susan than he had been with her younger sister. She having been initiated in the roguish plot, played her part to perfection, and the mother though perfectly ignorant of the conspiracy against the visitor, or of his mistake, was too shrewd to believe that the purchase of a couple of pigs was his sole errand. Pleased at the prospect of such a respectable match for her eldest daughter, she strove to be as gracious and entertaining as possible.

The widower, surrounded by so much feminine sympathy, became extreamly confidential. With tears he dilated on the beauty and virtue of his deceased spouse, gave a detailed account of her illness and death, concluding by a graphic description of his loneliness and domestic troubles. Words and sighs of consolation were breathed around him. The widow bemoaned his bereaved condition, "but she was an old woman and had two such daughters. Her girls, especially the eldest, had been such a comfort since her husband's death."

The guest, looking unutterable things at the damsel, "was sure it must be so," while she comforted the mourner with shy, little glances, and sweetly lisped half finished sentences.

Supper over Mr. Dole arrived with a sled load of wood, drawn from a distant wood lot. The bargain for the pigs having been satisfactorily concluded, Tabitha Dole came to spend the evening. Apples were brought, nuts were brought, and a bowl of hot punch mixed.

The tall clock in the corner strikes nine, Tabitha donned cloak and hood, and, escorted by Edward White, ostensibly started homeward, but in reality the pair proceeded no further than the long back kitchen, when raking open the smouldering fire they quietly seated themselves upon the settle in the chimney corner.

Mrs. Adams rolled up her stocking, took the knitting sheath from her side, and placing both on a high mantle, brought the large family Bible and politely requested Deacon Cluff "to set the house in order," which, after a slight show of modest hesitancy, he proceeded to do in his best style, which really was very good.

Prayers over, the widow, complaining of fatigue, but begging the visitor not to hasten his departure, sought her bed room. The young ladies and Mr. Dole became more entertaining. Some cold chicken was brought, and another mug of flip made, as a bonne bouche before the guest set out on his long, cold ride. The merriment increased, till somehow the deacon found himself alone with Miss Susan Adams, who was demurely knitting in her mother's low rocking chair by the small, round light stand. He pushed his seat forward, and strove to take the work from her hand. She coquettishly resisted. The chair went forward another hitch, something intended to be sweet and complimentary was stammered, then everything swam before his vision, his eyes closed, his head sank on his breast, and the pious, distinguish Deacon Cluff was fast asleep.

The maiden's needles clicked, the fire snapped and sizzled, the cat purred on the hearth, the clock tick tacked, tick-tacked, then rang out eleven. The deacon never moved.

The door leading from the back kitchen was cautiously opened and four merry faces peeped in. Miss Susan put up her knitting, and with a motion to silence, softly opened the dairy-room door, and bringing forth a tall, upright churn, she quietly placed it between the sleeper's knees, and then noisolessly covering the fire with ashes she blew out the candle and joined the gay quartette in the next room.

A little suppressed laughter and the young men went to their chamber, while the girls betook themselves to their sleeping apartment, a bedroom adjoining the kitchen.

I need not say that though the bed was sought it was not to sleep.

Toward morning Deacon Cluff awoke, rubbed his eyes, and shook his benumbed limbs. Over went the churn with a great bang and rattle on the broad brick hearth. The cat, with a terrible sissing, flew up the chimney and took refuge on the jug pole.

The widow lifted her night capped head, and muttered that the uncanny witch Goody Sleeper was at her tantrums, riding hither and thither through the night on her broom stick. What was she up to now? Some mischief at the barn, she must cut some hair from one of the critter's tails and burn it on the morrow. Comforted at the thought of this specific against evil, she dozed off agaon. Meantime the deacon was becoming conscious of his whereabouts and situation. A good deal ashamed, vastly provoked, yet in spite of his ire somewhat amused, he silently groped out his hat and coat from the entry, then as quietly made his exit from the front door, which had been considerately left unbarred. Making his way to the barn, by the light of the moon, he easily procured his horse, the bridle hung upon the stall, but the saddle was missing. A bareback ride of ten miles was no pleasant prospect, but after searching awhile the deacon cancluded it must be done. He was only too glad to have the moon suddenly obscured that he might escape being recognized by any chance wayfarer.

Nothing occurred to interrupt his lonely ride. Near dawn he arrived at his own door, a wiser if not a sadder man.

Some weeks later, upon rising one morning, our hero espied what at first he took for a wild animal perched in a tree opposite his chamber window, but which upon examination, he found to be his missing saddle.

All parties kept their own counsel. The year waxed and waned. Choir singing was established at the "Green," eveu a bass viol had been introduced, much to the horror of old members, who were scandalized at such Papistical innovations. The young and beautiful Widow Adams had become Mrs. Elbridge Clinton, and Hannah Adams and David Dole had been cried three times in the meeting, when the post brought a letter to Deacon Cluff. What was his astonishment to find it an invitation to the wedding.

Taking heart of grace he determined to go.

On a lovely Winter evening in again found himself riding up the long lane. The large house was thronged. The bride and her bride-maid Tabitha Dole, looked as lovely as ever maidens looked. Mrs Susan a mistress of ceremonies appeared to great advantage; both the bridegroom and the groomsman, Edward White, were especially attentive to the deacon. Mrs. Adams, little wotting the reason, chided him for not before renewing his visit. Miss Adams sweetly hoped they should see him again. She did not hope in vain.

The orthodox year of mourning having ended, after a little coquettish pruderry the lady consented to fill the vacant place in the deacon's household, and before the lapse of another year his family received a mistress and his children a mother who verified the Scriptural description of a perfect woman. "Her children rise up and call her blessed, her husband also, and he praiseth her in the gates."

In his later years Deacon Cluff was fond of relating how he found his second wife, not failing to assure his hearers, with a merry twinkle of the eye, that he had never regretted his visit to the Widow Adams.—Western World.

Evenings at Home.
No. 1.

BY HECLA HOLLYWOOD.

Close the blinds, draw the curtains, wheel the easy chair near the centre table, adjust the lamp shade, take up a book, and in these comfortable circumstances I read; But by a few moments only, for soon a change comes over me—a dreamy quiet, a stillness almost deathlike settles over the room, broken only by the chirping of the cricket or ticking of the clock.

Would that my pen were inspired, that I might express all that seems heavenly to me in this solemn stillness. Within these four walls is a world all my own, filled with the spirits I love, with the lives I emulate; in here there is no strife, no murmurs, no annoyings, no discord only quiet, perfect quiet.

I think few people appreciate the waiting stillness of closing day, be it in winter when the sun leaves us in a winding sheet of snow, to illumine other climes, or in the full golden summer when we watch his decline from beneath the arms of some wide spreading oak we instinctively feel our own insignificance and are silent.

Nothing is more to the point or more beautiful than "Gray's Elegy in a church yard." When I read that carefully, reflectingly, I feel as if it were indeed true, that "the world" is left "to darkness and to me."

Unconsciously my book has fallen to the floor, my hands are crossed idly on my lap, and staring in the coals I see mininture pictures of long ago. There! see them, quick, ah, they are gone, only one do I remember. It was a slender brown haired child with pale cheeks and large sorrowful dark eyes. I do not know her name, it may have been Mabel, for that seems more suitable than any other. Perhaps she was one of those nameless waifs that wander down the throughfare of time; if so do not wonder at the sadness of her face. I can read in her eyes the often expressed wish for friends and wealth. If you had them dear Mabel, you would go no happier for "Every heart knoweth its own sorrow." Yet if the loss of a mother's devotion, a father's love, a brother's protecting care, a sister's advice, and all the nameless charms that cluster around the word "home" and "fire side" is not enough to embitter ones whole life, in the name of all that gives happiness what is?

Put yourself in her place, pardon the childish expression but "play" that you are the Mabel of my vision, an orphan, and you will find that the spirit which that word conveys is synonymous with isolation!

But accept, if you will, my advice never look on the dark side, the bright one is the only side intended for us, for who can penetrate darkness, or read futurity? Be satisfied with to-day, "for sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." Keep this in mind, "all that lives must die, passing through life to eternity."

Close at once the closely written pages of the past; yet ere Lethe's dark wave of forgetfulness rolls over and forever shuts out from view the hopes that were then so dear, permit me to roam at large once more in the almost forgotten paths of maiden-hood, and drink again great draughts of life-giving nectar from the fountain of youthful joys. Ah, now indeed

"The first bright hope of my life comes back
And the world more beautiful seems,
For all I loved so long, so well,
Is with me here in my dreams."

I do not think there was much romance in my life, not when I was very young, any way. We loved each other dearly, without ever thinking of the consequences, or the hereafter at all. Naught that the great world could give would have added one iota to our joy, for we had perfect confidence in each other, which by the way is seldom found now.

In the ways of the world we were children, the serpent had not yet entered our Eden.

We hear it said that "the darkest hour is just before day," and I

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET

FOR PRESIDENT,

ULYSSES S. GRANT,

OF ILLINOIS.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

HENRY WILSON,

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Electorial Ticket.

FOR THE STATE AT LARGE:

MARCUS ERWIN, of Buncombe.
SAMUEL F. PHILLIPS, of Wake.

FOR THE CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS:

1. EDWARD RANSOM, of Tyrrell.
2. WILLIAM F. LOFTIN, of Lenoir.
3. Wm. A. GUTHRIE, of Cumberland.
4. THOMAS M. ARGO, of Guilford.
5. S. A. DOUGLASS, of Rockingham.
6. WILLIAM R. KYNUM, of Rowan.
7. JAMES G. RAMSAY, of Rutherford.
8. JAMES M. JUSTICE, of Richmond.

THE RESULT IN THE DISTRICT.

The result in this First Congressional District is especially encouraging to us. We have gained four Senators and nine Members of the Legislature, probably three more; have elected our Member of Congress by about 1800 maj. and have increased the vote on the State ticket over two thousand. We feel that we have not labored in vain, and had the same work been done in the other Districts, North Carolina would have been carried by 20,000 majority.

The NORTH CAROLINIAN entered the canvass earnestly, zealously, honestly. Feeling that the issues were momentous; that Republican success was vital to the best interests of the people of the District and State we put on our full harness and worked to our best ability. We have triumphed. The future promises brighter than ever before.

THE STATE.

North Carolina sends greeting to her sister States of the Union! Notwithstanding the superhuman efforts of the State Democratic leaders, with the aid sent them by the GREELEY National Committee from New York in the shape of money, able speakers and the notorious WOOD and BLUMENBERG to steal registration books and stuff our ballot boxes, we have elected our Governor and made very large gains in the Legislature. We cannot give the figures until our next. The watchword now is GRANT and Victory!

SUMNER'S SURRENDER.

CHARLES SUMNER has finally come out for GREELEY. He has defined his position in a long letter addressed to the colored people. Cleared of its rhetorical finish and its ornate parasee (?) it means a surrender to his life long enemies, abjuring his brilliant record as the champion of liberty and equality. The country and especially the colored people well understand that Mr. SUMNER has allowed himself to be so blinded by the passions and resentments of a merely personal controversy with Gen. GRANT as to become ready and willing to sacrifice the welfare of the race he has so long called his "wards" upon the altar of private enmity. FREDERIC DOUGLAS upon the stump is a complete refutation of each and every one of SUMNER's accusations and charges, and every intelligent colored man feels, that it was not any one man who made his race free, but it was the Republican Party, and they intend to support it as the bridge that carried them safely over from Slavery to Freedom.

SCIENCE IN FARMING.

In every field may be found a stalk of corn or of grain, a stalk of cotton, or a hill of potatoes excelling by far in yield and quality the average of the field. That some specific cause has produced this, there can be no question. What is it? Has it received the benefit of some fertilizer? If so, what, and in what quantity?

Is it from superior drainage? Was the seed from which it sprung superior? Has its cultivation been in any manner different? Will the product of this stalk reproduce its fruitfulness? Can the balance of the field be brought up to the same producing capacity?

These and others are questions which present themselves to the watchful observer. It is the province of science to ascertain the causes, and from them, to produce specific laws which shall govern under similar circumstances. If this can be done and the principles be applied to improve the whole field to the same or greater extent, science in farming is accomplishing its appropriate service.

He who can deduce these laws and apply them, be he well read in the books; only an observer of nature's teachings, a scientific farmer.

PASQUOTANK.

We give the returns of Pasquotank elsewhere. The Republican maj. for Governor is 396, a gain of 313 on the vote of 1870.

CURRITUCK.

The returns from Currituck are as follows: Merrimons maj. is 414; Carter leads Cobb only 399, and the Democratic Senatorial ticket only leads Grandy and Chamberlain 408 votes. On the State ticket their a Republican gain of 105 on the vote of 1870.

The vote in Pamlico, Pitt, and Hyde very close.

TRUE LIBERALISM.

The Richmond Republicans struck the keynote of what the campaign ought to be in the South in their great meeting at Richmond on Wednesday evening. Amongst their mottoes were these defining hits from our war history:

"Tell your boys they can take their horses home with them to help them make their crops."—General Grant to General Lee.

Here is another:

"If Lee and his comrades are prosecuted, I will resign."—General Grant.

Now look at the contrast:

"When the rebellious traitors are overwhelmed in the field, and scattered like leaves before an angry wind, it must not be to return to peaceful and contented homes. They must find poverty at their firesides and see privation in the anxious eyes of mothers and the rags of their children."—H. G. in Tribune, May 1, 1861.

We can best appreciate the difference between the two men by considering what would have been the result if Grant, when the war closed, had entered upon Greeley's bloodthirsty policy.

FIRST SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

The following are the majorities of the First Senatorial District.

	Rep.	Dem.
Pasquotank,	396.
Camden,		18.
Currituck,		408.
Perquimans,	248
Chowan,	150.
Gates,		225.
Hertford,	97.
	891.	651.
	651.
Rep. Maj.	240.

The author of the Ku Klux Bill was said to be unpopular at home. The election returns give him one hundred and sixty two majority in Elizabeth City, his own home, and one hundred and eighty three majority in Washington, Carter's home.

The Second Senatorial District is redeemed. J. B. RESPASS and H. E. SCULLEY have defeated LATHAM and SATTERTHWAITE by a decided majority.

HOW TO START MANUFACTORIES.

We need manufacturing establishments in this part of the South. We raise the raw material. It should be manufactured here. We raise the Cotton and the Grain, and we have Timber of the best kinds. What we want is factories to convert these articles into their most profitable uses—manufacture them here at home ready for the market. And yet while all cancede this want, there is too little done toward meeting it. Unfortunately, too many of our people are like the fellow in the fable, who, when his cart wheel sank into the mire, instead of putting his shoulder to the wheel and pushing it out, sat down despondingly, and began to whine and pray to Hercules for help.

"But what can we do without capital?" We answer that it is not necessary that we wait, depending upon foreign aid. We have at our bidding a power that can grapple with and overcome the difficulty—a difficulty more imaginary than real. That power is COMBINATION. By it, properly managed, we could soon have spindles whirling and shuttles flying to spin and weave our cotton and mills in operation to manufacture our grain and timber. There is no doubt about it. Now, we finally believe that taking the three counties of Camden, Pasquotank and Perquimans, a sufficient amount of capital to start a factory can be raised by the land holders taking stock to the amount of ten cents per acre on all their lands. We believe that, if the subject were once properly presented, it would be difficult to find a land holder who could not invest to the amount suggested. To carry out this scheme, it would only be necessary for each subscriber to pay one tenth in cash, and the rest in instalments of one or two cents per acre per month, till all was paid in. Thus a farmer owning 400 acres of land would subscribe $40. He would pay $4 in cash, and $4 per month for nine months. To become a stockholder, the farmer of one hundred acres would only have to pay one dollar per month for ten months. Where is the farmer who cannot do this? By this scheme in a years time we would have Cotton Factories and Mills showering their material blessings upon our people.

If the people of the counties named really desire advancement in material prosperity and wealth.

"Now's the day and now's the hour."

Surely it is better for us to thrust in our sickles, and reap the rich harvest that invites our efforts, than to stand all the day idle, pouring our piteous supplications into the deaf ears of foreign capitalists. If there be in our people the will, here's the way. It would gain an impetus to the development of all our industrial resources and pursuits. Once properly started, immigration, and capital, and skilled labor would flow in upon us in ever increasing streams and our section would soon realize the prosperity she so much needs.

TWO OPINION'S OF GEN. BUTLER

Our cotemporary of the Economist, in a recent article takes occasion to thus refer to Gen. BENJ. F. BUTLER:

We denounce him as a vagabond and an outcast from decent association, a cancerous plague sent upon the virgin bosom of humanity, a black hearted, white livered, infamous scoundrel.

Great men and distinguished editors will differ. HORACE GREELEY, see TRIBUNE of January 17th, 1868, says of Gen. BUTLER:

It cannot be denied that he is extremely well hated by those who felt the force of his heavy and vigorous hand during the rebellion, and who were compeled by him to maintain an outward obedience to the laws when obedience was most distasteful. It is not for nothing that they have nicknamed him the 'beast.' Schoolboys have found a similar comfort when writhing under a deserved fustigation. That he is much hated by the higher class of Rebels, by the more honorable and intelligent of the Secessionists, we do not believe. They have the sense to comprehend that Gen. Butler did no more than his duty; they respect him for doing it vigorously albeit they may have smarted under his vigor, and they would be ashamed to complain that he treated New Orleans very much as they would have treated Washington if it had fallen into their hands. Those who were half Rebels and half rogues entertain a different feeling; yet while they continue to believe that the fate of Mr. Lincoln was simply just, and that it would have been fair to reduce New York to ashes by the hand of a midnight incendiary, they may well hold Gen. Butler in horror and in hatred. His reward has been the gratitude of all loyal men and the hatred of anarchists and of traitors. He may well be proud of the invectives which have been hurled against him. The one small service which he could render England, says Macanlay in his brilliant essay on Barere 'was to hate her; and such as he was may all who hate her be.' The wrath of the unregenerate Secessionest is the crowning glory of Gen. Butler's life.

We have no comments to make further than to merely observe that the Economist is endorsing HORACE GREELEY and cordially supporting him for the highest office in the gift of the American people!

Sugar and salt are necessary to the system, but too much sugar leads to diabetis, too much salt to scurvy. The professions of honesty of some of our Democratic cotemporaries has become a disease and their papers would be more comfortable to read if now and then there was a trace of what SIDNEY SMITH would call "some redeeming vice"—a little truth, for instance.

Bolting Democratic journals are multiplying. The Terre Haute (Indiana) Journal and the Seymour Democrat, leading journals in Indiana, refuse to support Greeley. The Savanah (Georgia) News of the same party, says that Grant will beat Greeley 20,000 in that State.

The strongest argument in favor of the fitness of the Republican Party administering the affairs of the Government in the future is the fact the Cincinnatti and Baltimore, as well as the Philadelphia platforms have approved its past achievements.

"Of all the prominent men in the country," says shrewd old Jere Black, Horace Greeley is the only one who lacks every single qualification for the Presidency."

"During the last year there were sent to the Dead Letter Office over three millions of letters. Sixty-eight thousand of thesa letters could not be forwarded owing to the carelessness of the writer in omitting to give the county or State; 400,000 failed to be sent because the writers forgot to put on stamps, and 3,000 letters were put into the Pors Office without any address whatever. In the letters above named were found over $92,000 cash, and drafts, cheeks, etc., to the value of $3,000,000."

The above extract contains a few facts worth the attention of careless people, and particularly of those who correspond with newspapers, inclosing money and expecting answers. No doubt nearly the whole of that vast amount of money was made up by inconsiderable sums in separate letters, and because of carelessness in direction, omission of residence and name, all was lost.

The labor strikes in Williamsport Pa., became so violent that the Governor of the State called out the military and put them down. When will men learn that liberty is just as good for one man as for another. If you don't want to work, quit. But if your neighbor wants to work, and you hinder him, you are a tyrant and ought to be suppressed. Labor Reformers must learn this.

"If Greeley cannot yield enough of his Radicalism to become a Democrat, how can he expect three millions of Democrats to yield enough to make them Greeleyites."—Democratic Exchange.

We give it up. But it is a very proper question for Democratic editors to think over just now.

HORACE GREELEY'S personal organ—the Tribune—has been publishing a list of defaulters to the Government. It turns out that three of them are dead, five are fugitives, and the other thirteen are supporters of GREELEY!

The Cincinati Convention was a body without a constituency. The Baltimore Convention was a body without a principle. Both nominated HORACE GREELEY. Their platform is made up of "five loaves and two fishes."

HODACE GREELEY'S letter of acceptance is a long one and while the Democratic papers are obliged to say: "That was a splendid, a matchless letter, Mr. GREELEY," yet they feel like adding: "but if you love us don't write any more."

In nearly every county of the State where the Democracy are in power the burdens of the people have been increased by the levying of enormous taxes.

Our Democratic cotemporaries are pretty generally putting on the sheep's clothing of HORACE GREELEY, but their long ears stick out in the editorials.

Another prominent Democratic paper has suspended—the New Jersey Patriot. Greeleyism killed it.

Democrats have eaten so much crow that they already become croakers.—Exchange.

Well, they have cause!

The best vindication for a public man is the support of his neighbors. See the vote for Mr. Cobb in Pasquotank County.

A dozen Democratic papers in Texas, repudiate Greeley and Gratz.

Ku Klux Bill vindicated—See Mr. Cobb's majority in his own county.

Grand Republican Mass Meeting.

Pursuant to published notice a large and enthusiastic Republican Mass Meeting was held on Academy Green at Elizabeth City, on Wednesday, July 31st, 1872.

The meeting was organized at 11 o'clock A. M. by calling Dr. Paleman John to the chair. Hon. C. C. Pool and Hugh Cale were appointed Vice Presidents and John P. Overman Secretary.

Dr. John, on taking the chair, occupied about twenty minutes in a well timed and pertinent speech, when he introduced Hon. John Pool, who devoted near three hours in an able, eloquent and exhaustive examination and review of State and National politics. It was overwhelming and unanswerable. At the conclusion of the speech the Chairman adjourned the meeting one hour for dinner which was prepared on the grounds.

After dinner the chairman agrin called the meeting to order and introduced Aug. M. Moore Esq., the Republican War Horse of Edenton, who made a most able and telling speech. He was followed by J. H. Clements Esq., form Portsmouth, Va., who devoted an hour to contrasting the character and public services of the two candidates before the country for the Presidency, Ulyses S. Grant and Horace Greeley. At the conclusion of his excellent speech Hon. John L. Chamberlain, of Camden, was introduced who proceeded to deliver one of his inimitable speeches, cutting right and left into the opposition and dealing blows with remendous effect at those who had been sneakingly maligning him. On his taking his seat loud calls were made for Capt. C. W. Grandy, who reponded in a few remarks, when the meeting adjourned.

P. JOHN, Chm'n

The oldest artesian well in Europe is at Lillers, in the Pas de Calais, and from its mouth water has flowed uninterruptedly for seven hundred and forty-six years.

A railroad in the valley of the Nile is contemplated, so the ghost of the Pharoahs may soon bestartled by the scream of the locomotive.

The Herald says: "Jeff Davis flying in female attire was not half so grotesque and cowardly as Democracy skulking in the old white hat and coat of Horace Greeley."

Ole Uncle Henry, on Emporia, Kansas, negro, gives it as his opinion that "any colored man who votes for Greeley ought to have one good, blessed whoppin'—just such as dey usee to git when Horace's friend Jeff run things."

A correspondent writes to the Chicago Inter-Ocean in criticism of a paragraph which stated that "the national debt is being paid off at the rate of $2 50 per minute." The rate taking it in round numbers at about $100,000,000 per annum, is equivalent to $190 25 per minute, or over $3 per second.

A ten-year old, boasting to a schoolmate of his father's accomplishments, puts it thus:—"My father can do almost anything. He's a notary public and he's a apothecary, and he can pull teeth, and he's a horse doctor, and he can play the fiddle, and he's a jackass at all trades."

Dr. Livingtone, in a letter to Mr. Bennett, of the Herald, informs, him that he has named a lake in the great valley of the Nile for President Lincoln. The Doctor says: "In the great valley lies Lake Lincoln, which I name as my tribute of love to the great and good man of America."

The World says that Gratz Brown has had his phrenological development taken. The Tammany candidate for the Vice-Presidency was assured, among other things, that "he had too much mind for his body." This is rather an uncommon sort of complaint in these days, and one about which Mr. Brown ought to call in the highest attainable professional advice. We begin now to understand why the patient has a habit of taking frequent measures "to steal away his brains." It is obviously to relive the oppression of his "too much mind." Supposed, however, Gratz Brown should try the experiment of restoring the equipoise of his system, by making his body bigger instead of making his mind smaller? It would help him to follow the advice tendered to him by the phrenologist, that he should "sleep more," and it would have the profitable result (to the Greeley ticket) of making him talk less.

PREPARED WHEAT

AND

SUGAR OF MILK.

Patented July 23d, 1872.

A FARINACEOUS FOOD FOR INVALIDS AND INFANTS.

By the peculiar process in which this preparation is made, all the flesh forming constituents—EARTHY and SALINE elements of the grain are retained, with none of the STARCH, all of which being converted into Dextrine.

It contains all the Lime, Sulphur, Phosphorus, Iron and Manganese for the animal juices, and Gum and Fecula for respiration and fatty tissue, with the proteine compounds (Gluten, Albumen etc.) from which nerve and muscular tissues are formed.

It is believed by the most intelligent men that much of the suffering, sickness and mortality of mankind is traceable to deficient or faulty nutrition, that could easily and cheaply also be prevented by the free use of phosphates in the cereals of our tables.

We feel sure that this article will supply the deficiency.

Sugar of Milk.

[LACTIN.]

Is a chrystalized sugar, obtained from the whey of cow's milk by evoporation. It is manufactured largely in Switzerland and the Bavarian Alps as an article of food and for medical purposes.

It has been used considerably in England as a non-nitrogenous article of diet in Consumption and other Pulmonary Diseases, and with excelent effect in extreme Irritability of the Stomach, (see Wood & Bache's Dispensatory.)

We manufacture 2 grades:—No. 1, in yellow wrapper, ground coarse, to be eaten as cracked wheat, with cream. No. 2, white wrapper, is ground into Flour for Puddings, Blanc-Mange and Bread.

DIRECTIONS.

For Making Mush with No. 1, Ground Coarse.—Mix four tablespoonfuls of the Wheat with a gill of cold water; rub into a smooth paste; then pour it into a pint of boiling water, stirring briskly, boil for 20 minutes. To be eaten with rich cream.

For Puddings, &c. use No. 2, Ground Fine.—Mix a tablespoonfnl of the food with a small quantity of cold water rub to a smooth paste; add to one-half pint of boiling water, constantly stirring, and boil about 8 minutes over a moderate fire. THIS JOURNAL is now thoroughly identified with the great political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For [illegible] the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its record of warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than two years ago, that the public should find in its columns a fearless, honest, and their interests faithfully guarded through its reliable, and shall [illegible] its proprietors have spared no labor or expense to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call attention to the following new advertisements this week:

Prepared Wheat and Sugar of Milk.
Kentucky University.
Female Pills.

Local and Personal.

☞ The brick work on the new Hotel will be finished this week.

☞ Newspapers and circulars are now carried through the Post Office for one cent.

☞ The account of the Salt River excursion on the boat "Greeley Democrat" will appear next week.

☞ Amusing—to see the "jig" between our Ex-Senator and the Senator elect on the news from Hertford county!

☞ Hon C. C. Pool left on Monday, to spend a few weeks in the Western part of the State among the mountains.

☞ The Mass Meeting here on Wednesday last was a grand success. See report of proceedings in another column.

☞ Last week we rode Col. Cherry "hobby-ey." We'll sure he was going. His name "sparrow shooting" he behooled or gaved him!

☞ The election over there will be a lull in the political fray, and we resume our usual variety. We know then some of our readers will go it—and so are we.

☞ The White Hat Party in Pasquotank did not prosper. The HORACE GREELEY eggs were not incubative. Either the eggs are addled or some other Hen is needed on the nest.

☞ Our unforgetting friend Capt. WILLIS PATRIDGE has again put us in a good humor by sending us a famous Watermelon. It was the largest we have found this season.

☞ Hon. [illegible] Corbin is now at Nag's Head. He has undergone vigorous and successful treatment. No man in the State has worked harder, and no one has achieved such a magnificent victory.

☞ Quite a number of our patrons have failed to pay their subscriptions. If not done very soon they will be charged Two dollars and fifty cents. This is fair notice to all.

☞ Hon I. W. ALDERSON will accept our thanks for a copy of the "Journal of the proceedings of the United States Centenial Commission at Philadelphia." It contains much matter of interest.

☞ We see a new piece of Music arranged—"The kiss she gave me at the gate." To call this new is a mistake. To our personal knowledge it was quite familiar among the more fortunate youngsters twenty-five years ago.

☞ If you have'nt business, advertise if you have business, advertise. People go to places that are advertised while they are let go by those that are not. A place that nevertises is known to the world; that which does not is only known to a few that may pass it, and pretty much everybody does the latter.

☞ The communication of our Winton friend might be considered a little personal. It is true that the Poet said

"Fools rush in where angels show
For wisdom is often given."

But then how affectionately all of us delight in such delusions.

☞ As a member of the Republican Party we abide by and live up to its usages and laws. Before Conventions we have a right to work for the men of our choice; after Conventions we feel bound to support the nominees. We practice what we preach. Sometimes the men we prefer are nominated; sometimes they are not. In both cases we have supported the ticket.

☞ At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Albemarle Agricultural Society it was ordered that 40 per cent of the stock subscribed be paid in on or before the 1st of September. This with the 10 per cent assessment already made will be 50 per cent. The money is now needed to make a payment on Grounds and prepare them for the Fair this Fall. The money must be paid to C. W. HOLLOWELL Esq., Treasurer. Let every stockholder respond at once.

☞ A good hand writing is not merely a great accomplishment, but it is a positive help to success in life. One of the least of its advantages is that it secures the perusal and publication of articles sent to a newspaper. We omit scores of contributions simply because we have not the time, patience and ingenuity to decipher them. Their authorship leads us to beleive them good! but we must read them to know if they are what we want, and as life is short, we neglect to read them, and they are lost.

☞ The Editor of the Express, a Democratic paper published at Washington, the home of Col. CARTER, in alluding to the joint discussion between him and Mr. COBB at that place, says: "We have heard Mr. COBB spoken of in very depreciatory terms and hence expected a halting, incoherent and feeble response to Col. CARTER's argument; but we do not hesitate to say that Mr. COBB made a speech well delivered, fluent and ingenious." What a contrast with the opprobious epethets indulged in by the CARTER organ here! But then they increased Mr. COBB's majority 60 votes in this town and 304 in the county!! Mr. COBB is vindicated.

☞ The lastest returns have taken all the crow out the Greeleyites. Their barn yard fowl looks as limp as though he had been out in a heavy rain! Alas, poor bird!

☞ The latest case of absence of mind is reported by our Devil, being that of a young lady who, in returning with her lover the other evening, rapped on his face and kissed the door. From the manner in which it was told he was within rapping distance on the occasion!

☞ "Camden's gone, and Sir JONES is elected" was the wail on Friday of the White Hat leaders of our City, and the report from the other side of the River is that "Brindle Tail" is wearing a phiz all covered with grins while the redoubtable Colonel is giving vent to his feelings to the melancholly refrain—

"I feel like one who treads alone
Some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled, whose garland's dead
And all but me departed."

☞ A gentleman sends us the following Card which was posted at Camden Court House on the day of the election.

WITH DRAWN.

At the request of friends, and for the purpose of defeating the radical, I have withdrawn my name as a candidate, but with the fixed determination that this is to be the last of the Mohicans. Aug 1, 1872. T. B. BOURDELL.

Who are the "Mohicans"? Is reference made to the party just led by the gallant Colonel of Camden into the bottomless "chasm" of Greeleyism?

☞ Our learned cotemporary having taxed his "mathematical organ" gave us an article on Arithmetic last week. It was well written and his manipulation of Dividors and Dividends made the Quotient look favorable for his side. It caused many of his readers to feel jubilant

"——for a few days, a few days."

But when the returns came in and proved that he had made a blunder in his calculation—a mistake of over 8000 on the State, over 2000 on Congress and over 900 on the Senate, those who had confidently relied on his ciphering ability have become convinced that mathematics is not his forte.

☞ Our townsman Capt. GRANDY, who so gallantly carried our colors from one end of the Senatorial District to the other, and who "swallowed" the pickel and oldest champion of the Democracy, as he promised he would, looks and feels quite well and hearty after the operation and, if possible laughs louder than ever! He gave his opponent the "best he had in the shop," and his artillery proved too heavy for the small guns of anecdote and song to cope with. The Major blowed the horn of "Big Brother Thompson" in vain. GRANDY has honestly earned his laurels, and his friends are proud to see him wear them.

☞ The result of the election in this county is peculiarly gratifying. Two years ago we only carried the county by 83 majority. This year our majority is 396. A glorious gain. Two years ago Mr. CORR's majority was only 91. This year, notwithstanding the efforts of the "Sparrow Shootist," it is 396! Last year Capt. GRANDY carried the county by a majority of 383 which was considered "a big thing." This year he beats SKINNER 396 votes. Good for GRANDY! F. M. GODFREY Esq., leads the whole ticket. A partisan effort had been made to injure him by implicating his name with an unfortunate tragedy of the war. His friends and neighbors, irrespective of party, resented it at the ballot box by rolling up a majority for him to the tune of 551 votes! No man was ever so completely vindicated. The vote of BENJ. C. BROTHERS, for Treasurer, was likewise a flattering one. The people like him and voted for him. His majority is 503. We call all this a pretty good days work—one of which the Republicans of Pasquotank have right to feel proud, especially in view of the fact of the little family division we had on the Sheriff. But for this our majority on the State, Congressional and Senatorial tickets would have reached 450.

LOCAL PORT-FOLIO.

A PERILOUS SEASON.—Glorious and delightful as the Summer weather is, its tropical heat is a severe trial to the vital powers. Even the strongest are sometimes prostrated by its effects. The common phrase applied to this condition of the body is "general debility." Now, general debility arises from, and includes a variety of ailments. The liver is more or less affected, the bowels are either constipated or too much relaxed, the stomach but half performs the work of digestion, the appetite is poor, and the spirits depressed. This is what is called general debility. It is a general disarrangement of all the physical functions, and requires a general medicine that will regulate them all. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is specially adapted to this purpose. Its general operation is not confined to a single organ. If the liver is affected, it restores its tone. If the stomach is torpid, it regenerates it. If the nerves are irritabous and weak, it braces and reinforces them. If the mind, which ever sympathizes with the body, is gloomy and despondent, it relives the difficulty, and soon brings the whole mechanism of the body into harmony with the laws of health.

There is no civilized nation in the Western Hemisphere in which the utility of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a tonic, corrective, and antibilious medicine is not known and appreciated. Throughout the Tropics it is considered, both by the people and the profession the standard specific. While it is a medicine for all seasons and all climates, it is especially suited to the complaints generated by the weather, being the purest and best vegetable stimulent in the world.

Beware of the Bitters made of acrid and dangerous materials, which unscrupulous parties are endeavoring to palm upon the public has no guarantee that they are not poisonous. Adhere to the tried and genuine Hostetter Bitters, sold only in glass, and never in kegs or barrels.

Strong Testimony.

STEUBENVILLE, OHIO, Sept. 4, 1871.

Dr. Wm. H. Tutt:

Dear Sir—I feel it a duty to you and to suffering humanity to write to you the great merits of your Extract Sarsaparilla and Queen Delight. For years I have been a great sufferer, my general health broke down, and I was afflicted with nervousness of the most terrible character, which was soon followed by an eruption all over the body, forming large ulcers in some places, and attended with rheumatic pain. Tongue cannot describe my suffering; I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and had a perfect loathing of food. I was attended by several physicians, who rendered me no relief. I despaired of ever being well again; but thanks to a kind Providence, I accidentally heard of your medicine. I sent for half a dozen bottles, and before I had taken three I began to feel better, my appetite improved, and the rheumatic pains became less severe, and I could enjoy sleep. I have continued its use, and have taken eleven bottles, and believe I am a sound man again. The sores have all healed, my skin smooth and healthy, and I have gained 22 pounds in weight. I believe my sickness resulted from a taint of scrofula. I would earnestly recommend your compound to my fellow sufferers.

With deep gratitude to you
I am ever your friend,
JAS. FRANKLIN.

FOUTZ'S CELEBRATED Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To Keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

Imporvement of Dairy Animals.

A correspondent to the Journal of the Farm says: How many cows are kept that are nearly a source of expeuce rather than profit to their owners. I see such animals almost every day in the course of my travels, and cannot but feel surprised that so many farmers display so little judgment in the selection of their dairy stock.

A cow of ordinary breed requires just as much food to keep it in proper condition, as an Alderny or Southorn, and yet these will yield for the dairy or the slaughter-house fully triple as the former, at least such has been my experience.

The dairy interest in the United States is so rapidly assuming immence proportions, and is so completely overshadowing that of any other nation, that it behoves our farmers to see to it, that it becomes profitable also. There should be a gradual but marked advance. There should be no going back, no retrogression. A standard should be established, and dairy animals as near as possible kept up to that standard.

To my mind there is but one method of reaching this improved condition of dairy stock, and that is by getting rid of all that is inferior. There can be no possible excuse for keeping cows that pay no profit, unless the owner does it for the pleasure of old acquaintance sake. Inferior bulls most be sent to the slaughter house, and their places filled with the very best animals of the respective breeds.

In addition to these changes, the principles of breeding, so greatly misunderstood, must be made familiar and clear to the minds of all who engage in rearing stock for the dairy. I will not attemp to define these principles. They are laid down in a number of excellent treaties on the subject, and they should be carefully studied.

If such a system as that so briefly reccomended, were generally adopted, the United States, with no more dairy stock than is now found within its limits, would be capable of furnishing dairy products,—excepting milk and cream, of course—to the entire world.

Overgrown Hogs.

There is not one single advantage to be claimed in favor of big hogs. There was never a monster hog which did not make the man who raised him pay for every pound he weighed.

They do not furnish an ounce of meat gratis, but charge full price for every atom of his carcas. When slaughtered, it takes a long time to get one cool to the marrow in the bone, and then when the hams are put in salt, it is troublesome to finish them to the centre. Four hundred pounds live weight is as large as hogs should be, in order to make good bacon.

Beyond this size there is a loss somewhere. Either the feeder, butcher or consumer is cheated, and as a general thing every one who has anything to do with the big hog will find if he observes closely, that they are not so profitable as the smooth, nice hogs of only three hundred and fifty pound weight. A small head, with little, upright ears, and legs and ears, delicate to perfection, are marks which indicate the greatest amount of flesh for any given amount of food consumed; and will always draw more readily the attention of the butcher.

Wearing Flannel.

The majority of people are not aware of the beneficial effect of wearing flannel next to the body, both in cold and in warm weather. Flannel is not so uncomfortable in the warm weather as prejudiced people believe. Frequent colds and constant, hacking coughs are avoided by adpting flannel garments. There is no need of a great bulk about the waist, which condemns the wearing of flanel with those who prefer wasp waists to health, for in that case the flannel can be cut as loosly fitting waists, always fastening at the back. There are scacely any of the bad effect or sudden changes of the weather felt by those who wear flannel garments, and mothers especially should endeavor to secure such for their little people in preference to all those showy outside trimmings which fashion demands.

To Cure a Felon.

As soon as the parts begin to swell get the tincture of lobelia and wrap the part affected with a cloth saturated thoroughly with the tincture, and the felon is dead. An old physician says he has known it to cure scores of cases, and it never fails if applied in season.—Journal of Medicine.

How to Treat a Stye.

The stye is a small boil protruding from the eyelid. It will usually pass away of itself, but its cure may be hastened by applying a warm poultice of bread and and water in a small linen bag. Applying three or four times a day, and each time foment the eye with warm milk and water.

To Keep Ice.—Make a double pocket of strong woolen cloth, no matter how coarse and faded it is. Have a space of two inches or so between the inner and outer pockets, and pack this space as full as possible with feathers, You have no need to use geese feathers; hens' feathers are just as good. With a pocket thus constructed and kept closely tied at the mouth, a few pounds of ice may be kept a week.

It was commonly said that every one has a right to half of the road. When two meet on the road, their rights are equal, so the law directs each to turn to the right, leaving six or eight feet between teams in passing, if the road will permit. Courtesy should be shown heavy teams, to give them as little trouble in passing as possible, and the same courtesy should always be returned by those who have been favored.

To Give a Fine Color to Cherry Tree Wood.—Take one ounce of orchanetta; cut it in two or three bits, and put it to soak for forty-eight hours, in three ounces of good olive oil. With this oil anoint your cherry tree after it is worked and shaped as you intend it: and it will giev it a fine lustre.

Stirring the soil frequently with an iron rake, about all garden crops, cannot be too strongly urged. Let it be done frequently and well. Two thorough sterrimgs are as good as one rain, and when the rain comes the soil is in the best possible condition to receive it.

To drive Rats Away.—Fill the rat-holes with new slacked lime; repeat it a second time if necessary. It affects them in such a manner that they soon leave, very seldom requiring a repetition of the dose.

A balky horse, it is said, can de perfectly managed by placing your hand over the horse's nose and shut off his wind until he wants to go, and then let him go. So says one who states that he has long tried it.

When Adam and Eve partook of the tree of knowledge, did they study the higher branches?

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing. farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses. all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large bara, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3.000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3.000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15.000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A Farm of 200 acres within one mile of Elizabeth City, with good two story dwelling, large barn and stables, and all necessary outhouses, orchard of fine fruit trees, and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubbery around dwelling. This farm is on one of the most public roads in the County—is in a high state of cultivation—has fine and durable fences, &c. Altogether, it is the richest land and most desirable location, anywhere in the neighborhood of the town. Price $6000—one-half cash, balance in easy payments.

VINEGAR BITTERS

J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & Co., Druggists and Gen'l Agents, San Francisco, Cal., and 32 & 34 Commerce St., N. Y.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & CO., Druggists and General Agents, San Francisco, California, and 32 and 34 Commerce Street, New York.

What Horace Greeley Thinks of the Democratic Party.

EXTRACTS, RICH, RARE AND RACY

Now that Mr. Greeley has become the leader of the Democracy, we present the following extracts from editorials of the New York Tribune, writen by Mr. Greeley during the forty years of his editorial life. They are refreshing, and will not nauseate Democrats who have lost all self-respect,—forsaken principle in their hunt for office,—and become first-class dirt-eaters. The extracts are as follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE DISPISED.

"Mr. Webster was not only a gentleman, but he had the elements of moral greatness; and he had his faults as well. He failed only in one respect; and in this respect I differ from him—he wanted to be President, and I don't.—Horace Greeley, in 1868.

OUR GREATEST MAN.

"We have seen our greatest man, Mr. Chase, making the same blunder. I have seen men who had the disease early, and died of it at a very old age."—Horace Greeley, in 1868.

THE FATE OF GEN. CASS.

"Gen. Lewis Cass died at 82, and up to the day of his death he wanted to be President. No one ever escapes who catches the disease: he lives and dies in the delusion. Being a reader and an observer at an early age, I saw how it poisoned and paralyzed the best of our public men, and have carefully avoided it."—Horace Greeley, in 1866.

THE GOOD SENSE OF GEN. GRANT.

"We, at least, in our day, have a President-elect who did not try to be President. He was elected mainly on that account."—Horace Greeley, in 1868.

THE ENEMY OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

"If the Democratic party were called upon to decide between Grant and myself, I know that their regard for what they must call principle would induce nine-tenths of them to vote against me. Why? I am a decided enemy of that party, even in its most respectable aspects."—Horace Greeley, in 1871.

PICTURES OF THE DEMOCRACY.

"Every one who chooses to live by pugilism or gambling or harlotry, with nearly every keeper of a tippling house, is politically a Democrat."—Horace Greeley.

IGNORANCE A DEMOCRATIC VIRTUE.

"If there were not a newspaper or a common school in the country, the Democratic party would be the stronger than it is."—Horace Greeley.

DEMOCRATIC ESSENTIALS.

"The essential articles of the Democratic creed [are] 'love rum and hate niggers.' The less one learns and knows, the more certain he is to vote the regular ticket from A to izzard."—Horace Greeley.

WHO ARE DEMOCRATS

"We thereupon asked our contemporary to state frankly whether the pugilists, blacklegs, thieves, burglars, keepers of dens of prostitution, etc., etc., * * * were not almost unanimously Democrats."—Horace Greeley.

DEMOCRATIC VIRTUES.

"To smoke is a Democratic virtue; to chew is that virtue intensified; to drink rum is that virtue in the superlative."—Horace Greeley.

THE DANGEROUS CLASSES ALL DEMOCRATS.

"A purely selfish interists attaches the lewd, ruffianly, criminal, and dangerous classes to the Democratic party."—Horace Greeley.

SIX IN A BED.

"This would amount to six in a bed, exclusive of any other vermin, for every Democratic couch in the State of New York, including those at Sing Sing and Auburn."—Horace Greeley.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATS'

"Point wherever you please to an election district which you will pronounce morally rotten, given up in great part to debauchery and vice; where votors subsist mainly by keeping policy-offices, gambling houses, grog-shops and darker dens of infamy, and that district will be found at nearly or quite every election giving a majority for that which styles itself 'the Democratic party.' Take all the haunts of debauchery in the land, and you will find nine tenths of their master spirits active partisans of that same Democracy. What is the instinct, the sympathetic chord, which attaches them so uniformly to this party? Will you consider?"—Horace Greeley.

REBEL DEMOCRACY.

"The brain, the heart, the soul of the present Democratic party is the rebel element at the South, with its Northern allies and simpathisers. It is rebel at the core to-day. It would come into power with the hate, the chagrin, the wrath, the mortification of ten bitter years to impel and guide its steps. It would devote itself to taking off or reducing tax after tax until the Treasury was deprived of the means of paying interest on the national debt, and would hail the tidings of national bankruptcy with unalloyed gladness and unconcealed exultation. Whatever chastisement may be deserved by our national sins, we must hope that this disgrace and humiliation will be spared us."—Horace Greeley.

THE FEROCIOUS PROTECTIONIST."

"You only err as to the proper candidate. I am not the man you need. Your party is modestly Free Trade, and I am a ferocious Protectionist. I have no doubt that I might be nominated and elected by your help but it would place us all in a false position."—Horace Greeley to P. Doncan, in 1871.

"THE BAYNOT LAW OF 1870"

"It is urged by the Democratic organs that the law is to be enforced in State and municipal elections. This is done to make it more obnoxions, if that be possible, to their party. But, unfortunately, this is an error. The law applies only to presidential and congressional election, though we heartily wish it could be made to apply to all others."—Horace Greeley.

THE KU KLUX LAW.

"I hold our Government bound by its duty of protecting our citizens in their fundamental rights, to pass and enforce laws for the extirpation of the execrable Ku Klux conspiricy; and, if it has not the power to do it, then I say our Goverument is no government, but a sham. I, therefore, on every proper occasion, advocated and justified the Ku Klux Act. I hold it especially desirable for the South; and, if it does not prove strong enough to effect its pourpose, I hope it will be made stronger and stronger."—Horace Greely in 1872!

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S LINEAL SUCCESSOR.

"Many will be surprised at the President's hearty endorsement of civil service reform [in his message of 1870;] but he has been there all along. The President's summing up of the leading objects of his policy, and especially his desire to secure a pure and untrameled vote,' must appeal cogently to the judgement and affections of the American people. He is Abraham Lincoln's lineal successor; and the popular heart beats in unison with his administration and his efforts."—Horace Greeley in 1870
